Topic : Literary Devices

Essential Question

What are the literary devices I need to understand to analyze poetry, drama, and other literature?

Topic : Literary Devices

TEK

Students understand, make inferences and draw conclusions about how an author's sensory language creates imagery in literary text and provide evidence from text to support their understanding

Topic : Literary Devices

Figurative Language

Language that is not meant to be taken literally, or word for word.

Topic : Literary Devices

Imagery/Sensory Language

The use of language to create mental images and sensory impressions for emotional effect and intensity

Example:

- He could hear his world crashing down when he heard the news about her.
- A host, of golden daffodils;
- Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
  Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.
  Continuous as the stars that shine
  And twinkle on the Milky Way from Daffodils by William Wordsworth

Topic : Literary Devices

Simile

A comparison of two things that are essentially different, using the words like or as

Example:

- O my love is like a red, red rose from Robert Burn's "A Red, Red Rose"

Topic : Literary Devices

Metaphor

A subtle comparison in which an author describes a person or thing using words that are not meant to be taken literally.

Examples:

All the world's a stage,

And all the men and women merely players:

They have their exits and their entrances

From As You Like It by William Shakespeare

Sisters

She calls me tofu
because I am so soft,
easily falling apart.

I wish I were tough
and full of fire, like ginger—like her.

A Suitcase of Seaweed and other poems
© 1996 Janet Wong. All rights reserved.

Topic : Literary Devices

Extended Metaphor

A metaphor introduced and then further developed throughout all or part of a literary work, especially a poem—comparison can be made to something else not mentioned in the poem

Example:

Nothing Gold Can Stay by Robert Frost

Topic : Literary Devices

Nothing Gold Can Stay by Robert Frost

Nature's first green is gold

Her hardest hue to hold.

Her early leaf's a flower;

But only so an hour.

Then leaf subsides to leaf.

So Eden sank to grief,

So dawn goes down to day.

Nothing gold can stay.

Comparison= life to a sunrise

Topic : Literary Devices

Personification

Figurative language in which nonhuman things or abstractions are represented as having human qualities

Example:

- Necessity is the mother of all invention.

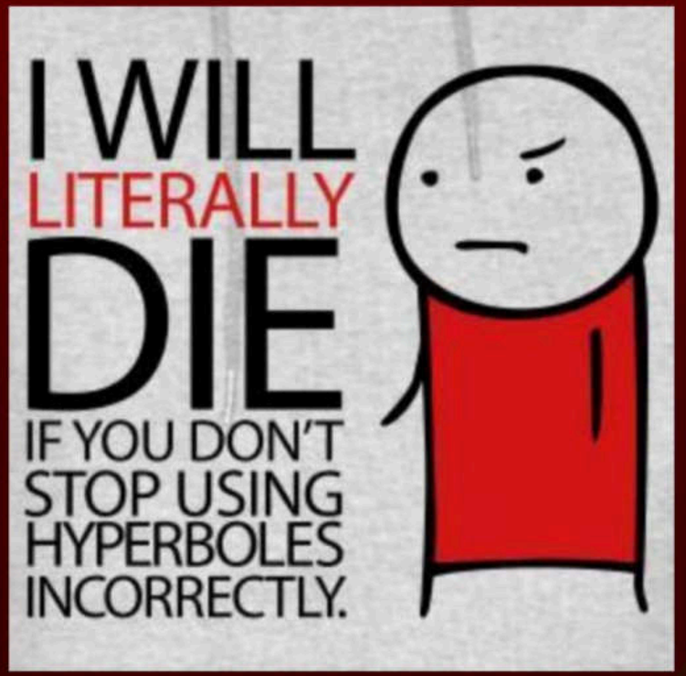

Topic : Literary Devices

Hyperbole

An intentional and extreme exaggeration for emphasis or effect

Example:

- This book weighs a ton.

Topic : Literary Devices

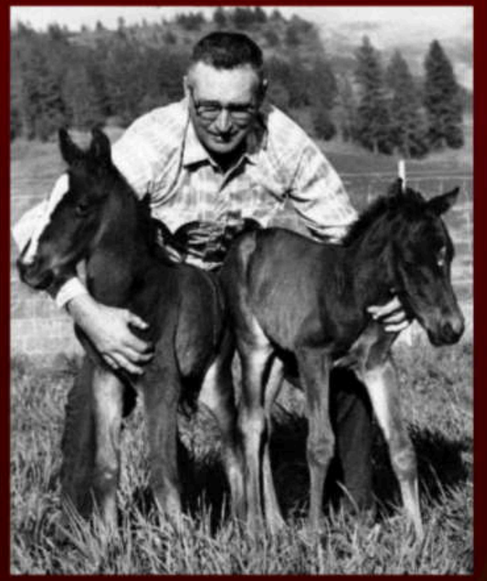

Idiom

Phrases people use in everyday language which do not make sense literally, but the meaning is understood

Examples:

Just hold your horses if you think idioms are hard! I'm here to let the cat out of the bag. Idioms are a dime a dozen, and learning them is a piece of cake.

Topic : Literary Devices

Sound Devices

Focus on the sound of words, rather than their meaning

Topic : Literary Devices

Repetition

Repetition is when an author repeats a word, phrase, sentence, or stanza for effect or emphasis.

Examples:

- The chorus or refrain of almost any song
- This poem, by Shel Silver Steh:

Topic : Literary Devices

HOW NOT TO HAVE

TO DRY THE DISHES

If you have to dry the dishes
(Such an awful, boring chore)
If you have to dry the dishes
('Stead of going to the store)
If you have to dry the dishes
And you drop one on the floor
Maybe they won't let you
Dry the dishes anymore.

Topic : Literary Devices

Rhyme

Rhyme is the repetition of end sounds in two or more words or phrases that appear close to each other in a poem.

Topic : Literary Devices

Alliteration

Alliteration is the repetition of a sound at the beginning of words.

Common Examples:

Coca-cola, Tiny Tim, Mickey Mouse

"While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping..."

The Raven-

Edgar Allan Poe

Topic : Literary Devices

Assonance

Assonance is the repetition of vowel sounds

Often creates near-rhyme

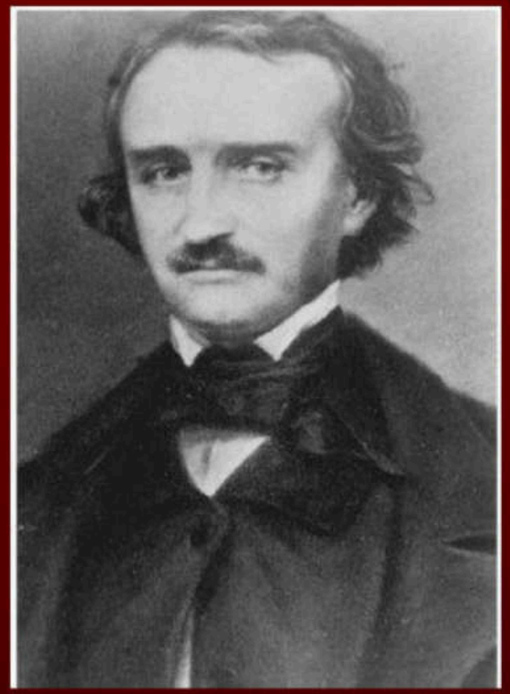

"The Bells" by Edgar Allen Poe

Hear the mellow wedding bells,
Golden bells!
What a world of happiness their harmony foretells!
Through the balmy air of night
How they ring out their delight!
From the molten-golden notes,
And an in tune,
What a liquid ditty floats
To the turtle-dove that listens, while she gloats
On the moon!

"mellow wedding bells" – short e sound

"molten golden notes" – long o sound

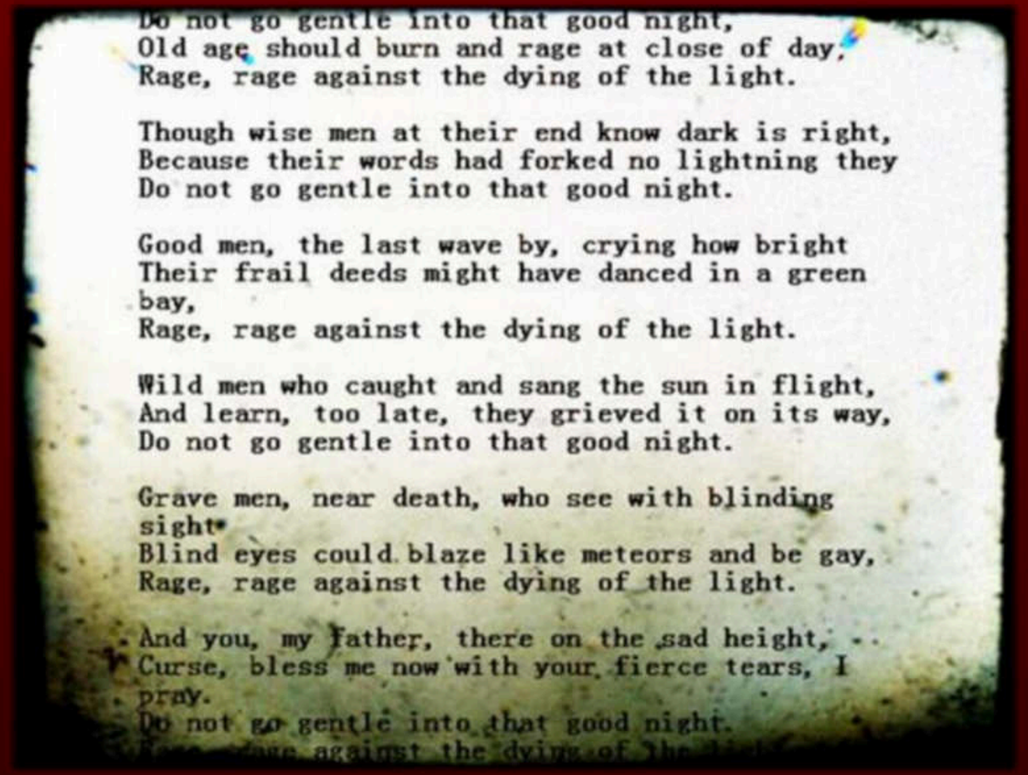

liquid ditty" – short i sound

Topic : Literary Devices

Consonance

Consonance is the repetition of consonant sounds at the end or middle of words (not rhyme).

Do not go gentle into that good night,
Old age should burn and rage at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Though wise men at their end know dark is right,
Because their words had forked no lightning they
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Good men, the last wave by, crying how bright
Their frail deeds might have danced in a green bay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Wild men who caught and sang the sun in flight,
And learn, too late, they grieved it on its way,
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Grave men, near death, who see with blinding sight
Blind eyes could blaze like meteors and be gay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

And you, my father, there on the sad height,
Curse, bless me now with your fierce tears, I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

"Do Not Go
Gentle into that Good Night"
by Dylan Thomas

"blind eyes could blaze" – z sound

"curse, bless me
now with your fierce tears" –
s sound

Topic : Literary Devices

Onomatopoeia

Onomatopoeia- a word that sounds like the sound it makes

For example: pop, crackle, screech, zip, fizz

Not just sound effects!

"And ere three shrill notes the pipe uttered,
You heard as if an army muttered;
And the muttering grew to a grumbling:
And the grumbling grew to a mighty rumbling:
And out of the houses the rats came tumbling.

The Pied Piper of Hamelin-
Robert Browning

Topic : Literary Devices

Symbol

A symbol is an object, person, place, or action that has a meaning in itself, and that also stands for something larger than itself.

For example:

A dove symbolizes peace.

A black crow or raven symbolizes death.

A wedding ring symbolizes...???

Topic : Literary Devices

Allusion

An allusion is a reference to a person, place, event, or literary work that a writer expects the reader to recognize and understand. It may come from history, geography, literature, art, music, or religion.

For example:

You were Romeo, you were throwing pebbles

And my daddy said, "Stay away from Juliet"

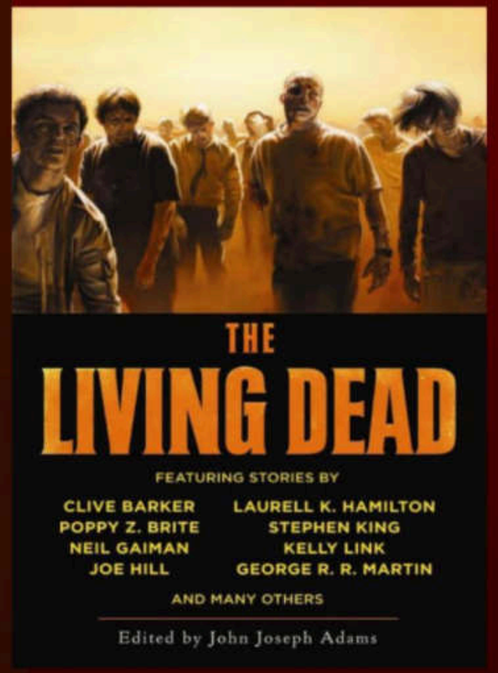

“Love Song”, by Taylor Swift

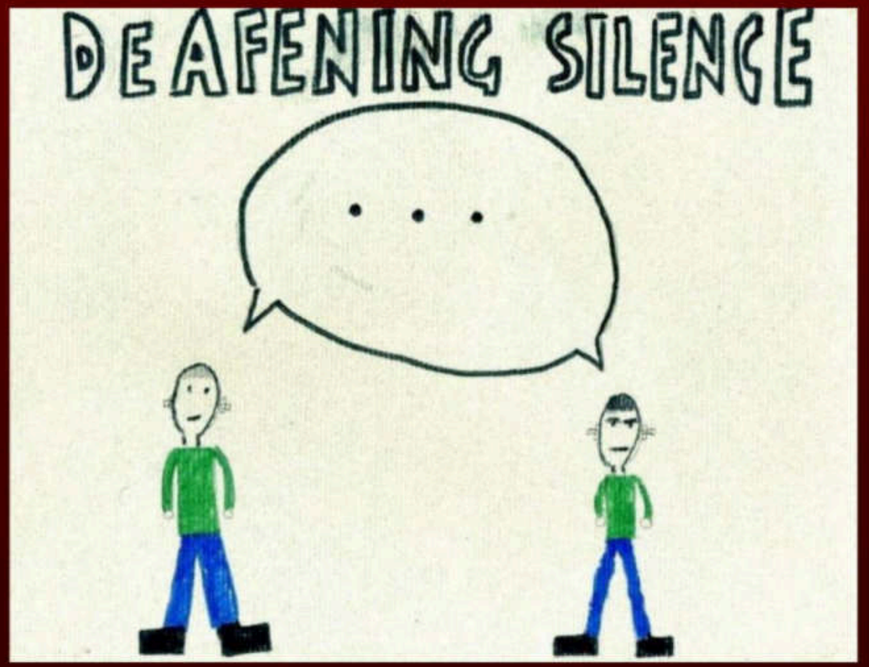

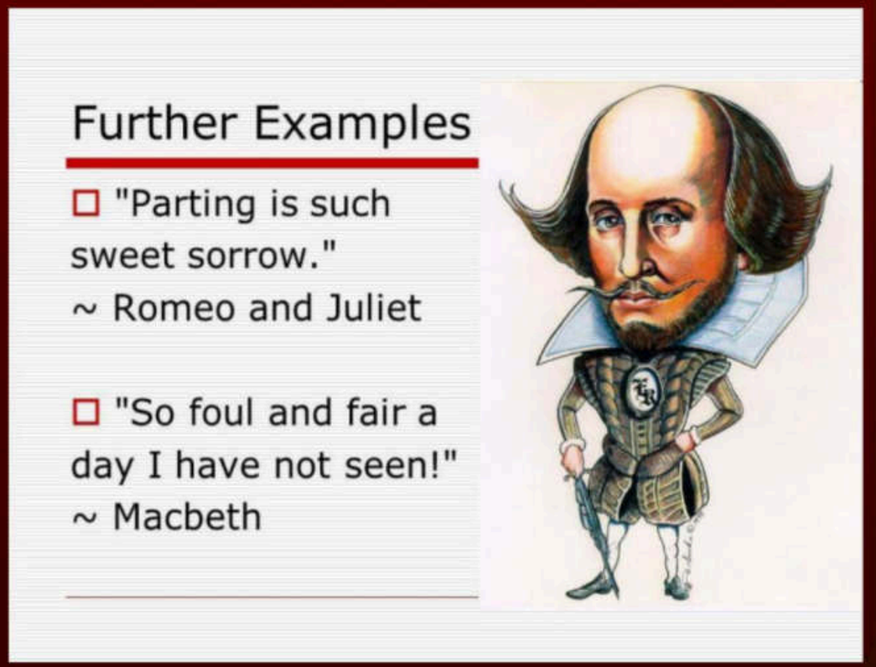

Topic : Literary Devices

Oxymoron

An Oxymoron is a figure of speech in which opposites are paired for effect.

Topic : Literary Devices

Aphorism

A concise statement of a general truth or principle; like a truism

Example:

- A penny saved is a penny earned. - Ben Franklin The man who does not read good books has no advantage over the man who cannot read them.
- Mark Twain
- “You never really understand a person until you consider things from his point of view – until you climb into his skin and walk around in it.”

from To Kill A Mockingbird by Harper Lee

Topic : Literary Devices

Epigraph

A quotation at the beginning of a literary work to introduce its theme

Example:

- But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou neatest thereof thou shalt surely die. (Genesis 2:17)

--from Twilight by Stephanie Meyer

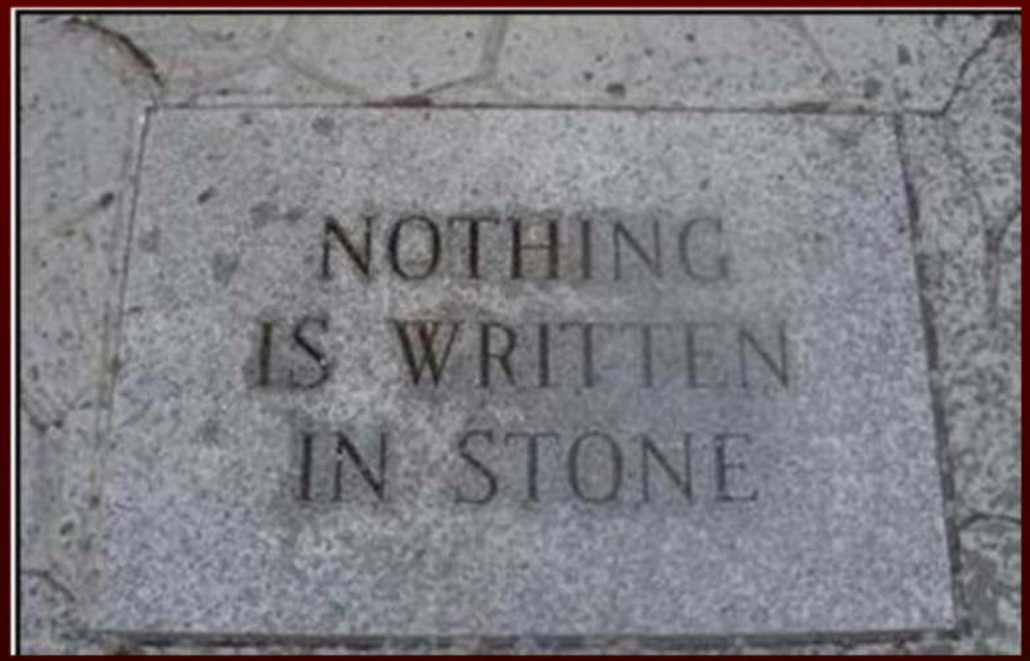

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LnBr-7QzBBg

Topic : Literary Devices

Irony

A literary technique used to create meaning that seems to contradict the literal meaning or events

- Verbal
- Situational
- Dramatic

Topic : Literary Devices

Verbal Irony

Use of words in which the intended meaning is contrary to the literal meaning

Example:

- "Are we gonna do anything today?" or "Is class gonna be fun today?"
- In SHREK , when Fiona Says "Where are you going?" and Shrek replies "I've got to save my ass." (Speaking of Donkey, of course.)

Topic : Literary Devices

Situational Irony

Implying through plot or character that a situation is quite different from the way it is presented.

Example:

- 'The Wonderful Wizard of Oz', Scarecrow always had a brain; Tin Man always had a heart; Dorothy could have always gone home; the Cowardly Lion wasn't a coward after all.

Topic : Literary Devices

Dramatic Irony

Dramatic device in which a character says or does something that he or she does not fully grasp but which is understood by the audience

Example:

- Lois Lane is constantly trying to get an interview with Superman, but she actually sees him every day and doesn't know it (Clark Kent).

Topic : Literary Devices

Sarcasm

A bitter form of irony, can be intended to tease or hurt; often insinuated by the tone; late Greek sarkasmós, f. sarkázein tear flesh, gnash the teeth, speak bitterly, f. sárx, sark- flesh.

Example:

- "I'm proud of you, Mom. You're like Christopher Columbus. You discovered something millions of people knew about before you." –Lisa Simpson

Topic : Literary Devices

Paradox

A seemingly contradictory statement that on closer analysis reveals a deeper truth.

Example:

- "I'm nobody." –anonymous
- I can resist anything but temptation." –Oscar Wilde
- "Nobody goes to that restaurant; it's too crowded."

Topic : Literary Devices

For Analyzing Poetry

Review

Topic : Literary Devices

Refrain

A phrase or verse recurring at intervals in a song or poem, especially at the end of each stanza; chorus.

Example:

“All you need is love Love is all you need”

--The Beatles

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=s-pFAFsTFTI

Topic : Literary Devices

Rhythm

- The BEAT created by the sounds off the words in a poem
- Rhythm can be created by meter, rhyme scheme, alliteration, assonance, and refrain.

Topic : Literary Devices

Stanza

- A stanza is a group of related words in a poem, similar to a paragraph of prose but does not have to have complete sentences.
- It's like a poetry paragraph!

"When the Teacher's Back is Turned" by Ken Nesbitt
When the teacher's back is turned
We never scream and shout
Never do we drop our books and try to freak her out.
No one throws a pencil
At the ceiling of the class.
No one tries to hit the fire alarm
And break the glass.

Topic : Literary Devices

Style

- Style is a manner or “way” of writing.
- It involves HOW something is said rather that what is actually said.
- A writer’s style is determined by the way he/she uses words.
  Ex: vivid verbs, imagery, sentence structure

Tyger Tyger. burning bright,
In the forests of the night;
What immortal hand or eye.
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?

In what distant deeps or skies.
Burnt the fire of thine eyes?
On what wings dare he aspire?
What the hand, dare seize the fire?

life's not a paragraph

and death i think is no parenthesis

Topic : Literary Devices

maggie and milly and molly and may went down to the beach (to play one day)

and maggie discovered a shell that sang so sweetly she couldn't remember her troubles, and

milly befriended a stranded star whose rays five languid fingers were;

and molly was chased by a horrible thing which raced sideways while blowing bubbles: and may came home with a smooth round stone as small as a world and as large as alone.

For whatever we lose (like a you or a me)
it's always ourselves we find in the sea

- No capital letters
- Personification
- Ends lines in the middle of a "sentence"
- Imagery

Topic : Literary Devices

Tone

- Tone is the writer's attitude toward a subject, character, or audience and is conveyed through the author's choice of diction, imagery, figurative language, details, and syntax.
- (In other words, tone is how the author feels about his subject, character, or audience, and he shows it through the words he chooses, and how he puts them together.)

Topic : Literary Devices

Tone

- Some words that can describe tone are:

Nervous

happy	Excited	Angry
Sad	Fearful	Threatening
Thoughtful	Nervous	Agitated
ecstatic	Worried	depressed

Sad

Belligerent

Ecstatic

Topic : Literary Devices

Mood

- The feeling that the writer creates for the reader.
- This is how the reader is supposed to feel about the subject.
- Descriptive words, imagery, and figurative language all influence the mood of a literary work.

Topic : Literary Devices

Theme

- Theme is the central message of a literary work, or the idea the author wishes to convey about that subject. It is not the same as the subject, which can be expressed in one or two words. (This is a lot like a truism.)
- Possible themes for The Outsiders:
  - Not all kids who are in gangs are bad.
  - o People may come from different backgrounds, but
  - we're all the same people.
  - o If something bad happens to someone, don't blame it
  - on yourself if it's not really your fault.
